I am a holder of Masters Degree in Sociology, and Bachelor's Degree in Journalism and Sociology, both from Birzeit University. I am currently a communication officer in the Media Office at the Attorney General's Office, responsible for media coverage of all news and activities of the Public Prosecution, sharing ideas to improve the work of the Public Prosecution, promoting cross-media publishing tools periodic international and public awareness activities, coordinating interviews between prosecutors and the press, and working closely with colleagues and partners in the Office. I was previously working as a communication officer as well with Sharaka Project, funded from the Canadian Agency for Foreign Affairs, which ended in 2016, and after that I became a government official until the present time.

I have received several courses and delivered trainings as well in various fields which contributed to developing my experience and skills. Among the most significant trainings I have delivered is the Follow-Up and documentation training of the staff of Jerusalem Water Undertaking, in cooperation with Elite Academy in Ramallah. Where among the most important courses I have received is the electronic media and social network delivered by the Media Institute in Birzeit University and the course of managing organizational change in non-governmental organizations, delivered by Kurv Wustrow.
